

Tony Bennett Concert November 19, 2011

We had the great pleasure of attending Tony's concert last Saturday at the Westbury Theatre. He was in fabulous voice, intonation perfect and a multitude of songs.

He sang in this order:

Watch What Happens
They All Laughed
Maybe This Time
I Got Rhythm
Cold Cold Heart
Sing You Sinners
Old Friends with his daughter Antonia (she opened the concert)
Steppin' Out With My Baby
But Beautiful
The Way You Look Tonight
Just In Time
I Wanna Be Around
Once Upon a Time (my husband's favorite)
For Once in My Life
The Shadow of Your Smile
Smile
I Left My Heart in San Francisco
How Do You Keep the Music Playing (my favorite)
I'm Old Fashioned
Who Cares
When You're Smiling

Instead of singing so many songs I would have preferred that he take more time with some of them. Being an avid Sinatra fan, one of the great aspects of Frank's singing was his ability to bring each member of the audience into his song and live the song with him. Tony doesn't do that.

Bennett is amazing that at his age, his voice is extraordinarily flexible and strong. He was a delight and the audience loved him, as he well deserved.
